

AMANERA VILLAS - DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Client - Dolphin Capital / Completed - 2016

Nestled within more than 2,170 acres of pristine Caribbean jungle, Amanera overlooks the ocean from Playa Grande, whose golden sands make it one of the region's most beautiful beaches. The Amanera Villas in are, quite literally, a force of nature. Outdoor areas and the views were one of, if not the, most important factor inspiring the design team, informed by the natural beauty of the surroundings. The expansive openings and the disappearing roof lines lend themselves to an architecture that blends in with the background, while also offering a sense of protection.

Web's objective was to create a tropical haven that opens up to the ocean. The grand wraparound windows create a sense of space and the villas' second floors were designed to appear dramatically suspended over the ocean, and, in an ultimate nod to the project's inspiration, blend in with the landscape and become part of nature.

