

////// MEDIACORP HEADQUARTERS - SINGAPORE

Client: Mediacorp / Completed: 2016

MediaCorp's new HQ in Singapore emphasises the collaborative nature of creative production with features including a 1,600-seat theatre, large studios and expansive open-workspaces. A reflective exterior cladding expresses the media's role as a lens for viewing the world. At the heart of the development are the large span studio spaces with steel trusses transferring column forces from the more cellular spaces above. The 3-storeys corporate office spaces are designed as multi-storey Vierendeel trusses to span the long span across the view corridor below as well as cantilevering and hovering over the theatre building below.

